

Achieving a Culture of Excellence

Two Baldrige Award winning healthcare leaders will facilitate an “Action Lab” that will engage attendees on creating a culture to lead and sustain excellence. Start with your Organizational Profile, an introductory assessment tool to gain critical insights into your operating environment. Additionally, gain an understanding of the Sterling/Baldrige framework, a transformational change model for excellence used worldwide for developing high performance systems.

This facilitated event is limited to 30 organizations of executive team level (recommend 3-5 members per organization).

Session Objectives:

- Learn how high performing organizations use the Sterling/Baldrige Criteria to drive systematic improvement
- Increase skills on using the Organizational Profile to help leaders identify the most important factors for success
- Identify key success factors, “best practices,” as well as pitfalls to avoid as you start the journey
- Understand the linkage and alignment of the leadership system, strategic planning, performance improvement and innovation
- Describe the critical importance of engaging employees in the work of the organization

You will receive tools, templates, and best practice examples that will be included in your handbook and used across the day as exercises are facilitated by:
